Learn

LNB is a crossroad of indigenous women and feminists from different background and expertise. It has been a storehouse of memories weaved together by individuals from different walks of life, strengthening solidarity and collective vision as a part of Indigenous Women Mentoring Program (IWOMEN).

In the heart of Quezon City lies a safe space for women seeking connection and empowerment. LILAK Banig n Breakfast, or LBnB, is safe space adorned with vibrant artwork made by women and indigenous women—and echoes with laughter and passionate conversations.

Here, women from all walks of life gather to share their stories, wisdom, and dreams. Guided by their passion, they delve into discussions on leadership, women's rights, activism and wellness. LB&B is not just a place to learn, but to grow, supported by a community that celebrates each woman's unique journey.

In this sanctuary of sisterhood, women find their second home away from home.

The LBnB is also home to LILAK's mini library where we have a small but growing collection of books, reports, and brochures about human rights, women's rights, indigenous peoples' rights, and land rights, among others. It's where we sit down to read, discuss, and learn as a collective of feminist human rights defenders. We hope to grow our library into a bigger and more conducive space, so it can serve more indigenous women, feminists, and activists.

MEETINGS

LNB is our home away from home. It's where we, the LILAK sisters, and our partners feel safe and so we make sure that we provide warmth and comfort to anyone entering our home. It's also where we display handmade products and artworks crafted by our partners and networks, adding a unique and personal touch of who we are as a collective. Here lies our commitment to provide connection, support, and a safe space for our valued sisterhood.
